MEMBERSHIP REPORT 2006

Foreword

The Association of International NGOs (AIN) Membership Report is an occasional publication, last produced in 2004. This report presents a brief profile of each INGO member affiliated with the AIN, an informal network of INGOs working in Nepal. AIN has come together to promote mutual understanding, exchange information and share experiences and learning of INGOs' work for better collaboration. We are proud to state that there has been an increase in the AIN membership from 50 members in 2004 to 68 in 2007.

Working in a wide range of issues and sectors, poverty alleviation and sustainable development have been leading objectives of AIN members. The political conflict and instability in the country since 1996 to early 2006 drastically hindered development efforts. However, AIN members have continued their work with commitment and vigour despite the many challenges and impediments faced during the conflict.

Being an umbrella organisation, AIN has been profound in making use of its resources for consolidated efforts to development in Nepal. Some of the key initiatives of AIN were policy research studies in areas related to the PRSP, MDG and Conflict; policy discourses with stakeholders including the government for advocacy on various issues; and, support to government agencies such as the Social Welfare Council in matters relating to INGOs and development in the country.

In 2006, AIN published the report, "AIN's Contribution towards meeting the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs)" which reveals AIN's high priority to the MDGs. Likewise, another compilation entitled "Expanding the Space For Development by INGOs during Nepal's Transition Process" was published, which draws learning and recommendations from experiences of AIN members to addressing dialogue, transparency & networking in conflict situations.

AIN's commitment is also indicated by the total budget of its members amounting to more than Rs. 7,000.00 million, which works out to 17% of the total pledged foreign aid for the fiscal year 2006/07.

With the advent of a historical turn in Nepal's politics, the country is going through transformative changes, politically and socially. As one of the primary actors, AIN is committed to just, democratic and socially inclusive development in Nepal.

This membership report has been produced for all AIN members, our partners, Government of Nepal, civil society and those interested to learn about our work in Nepal and to provide a consolidated source of information on AIN members.

With best wishes,
AIN Steering Committee 2006

About us

Established in the year 1996, the Association of International NGOs - AIN is an informal group of INGOs working in Nepal. As a vital actor in the development sector, since its inception AIN has made a niche of its own through the implementation and accomplishment of various people-centered development programs all over the country. At present the AIN comprises of more than sixty INGOs, working on a wide-range of issues making noteworthy contributions to development efforts in Nepal. AIN as an umbrella has stood as an epitome for these diverse range of INGOs working in the country. AIN has been keenly facilitating and supporting its member's ideals and objectives, promoting mutual understanding, fostering camaraderie and harmony. As an ultimate platform to facilitate development cooperation AIN has been a vehicle to transfer knowledge & information, sharing experiences & learning of the Member Organizations.

With the onset of peace & establishment of new Nepal, AIN is committed to expand its resources to reach out to the needy people, especially those affected by the conflict. As a key stakeholder and partner in the development of Nepal, AIN endeavors to engage with the government, donors, and various sectors of the civil society including the NGOs, the poor and the excluded strata. AIN has been playing an imperative role in shaping and implementing participatory democracy in their development efforts. AIN Member's credibility is arising from the responsible and constructive role they have been performing in the society. AIN members are professional humanitarian actors who, besides their development projects, have also embarked on humanitarian projects to respond immediately to people in need.

AIN within its members possesses a well-established and diverse experienced expertise with the capacity to execute a far-reaching role in reviewing and implementing environmentally sound and socially responsible sustainable development. AIN has a global network that should be tapped, enabled, and strengthened in support of the efforts to achieve the common goals of sustainability.

AIN is keen to strengthen the existing networks and global alliances to promote & enhance the recognition of INGOs and for the empowerment of all oppressed peoples. AIN seeks to reinforce the recognition of all its members as one of the key actors of sustainable development; and to strengthen their rights and means of influencing the decision-making processes by using existing legal instruments and international commitments, as well as by promoting new and more progressive ones. AIN is committed to fighting battle against poverty, discrimination, exclusion, marginalization and underdevelopment

AIN members operate under either a national, regional or international board or elected members or trustees. Respective Organisational Charter guides the Members on matters such as work ethics, scope and objectives of their involvement. They are keen towards transparency in their activities and are accountable internationally to their headquarters' management, and to the donors and individuals who fund their work. They are accountable nationally to HMG/N, under the procedures laid down by the Government, and to their partners in development, whether local organisations or beneficiaries.

AIN Members do not perceive themselves as "donors" but as partners in the development process. They are in an excellent position to support the development efforts of NGOs, CBOs and other community structures as well as the Government. AIN Members' contribution should thus be understood as an integral part of the Development Process. Partners include the local government, the corporate sector, informal institutions and other local alliances. Although INGOs have moved towards partnerships as their mode of operation, it should be recognized that they are also well equipped to work directly with various elements of civil society in dual partnership. AIN Members value this plurality of options.

Internationally defined principals and standards of human rights guide AIN. The wide range of AIN Member Organizations contribute in the field of Agriculture, Forestry, Health, Education, Renewable Energy, Construction, Environment and Poverty Reduction. Likewise many cover the components such as Human Rights, Women & Gender, Peace, Birth Registration, Social Mobilization, Good governance and Ethnic Minorities while others are focused on sectors such as Media, Economic Development, Advocacy, Institutional Development and Small Enterprise Development. Thus AIN embraces an array of development actors who turn the development dreams into reality. They share a common goal of poverty reduction and sustainable development, changing & improving the lives of many, especially the disadvantaged and the deprived ones. AIN Members abide by common core values and guiding principles, which has stood as a pillar of strength in spite of varying aims, policies and working methods of the diverse range of organizations.

The AIN Steering Committee comprises of nine members and is elected by the General Assembly for a term of two years. The Steering Committee meets once a month and whenever there is a need. The AIN General Assembly is held one time in a year and the AIN Plenary Assembly is held five times a year.

About the Organisation:

ActionAid is a secular and non-political international development organisation founded in the United Kingdom in 1972 and registered as a global entity in The Hague, the Netherlands in September 2003. The ActionAid International Secretariat is based in Johannesburg, South Africa.

It is working with over 13 million of the poorest people. Majority of them live in the developing world in more than 43 countries across Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Caribbean. ActionAid is committed to improving the quality of life of the poorest and the most excluded people so that they can live a life of dignity. It has over three hundred thousand supporters across Euresope.

ActionAid has been working in Nepal since 1982. Its mission here is to empower poor and excluded people to eradicate poverty and injustice. The work of ActionAid International Nepal (AAN), hereafter referred to as ActionAid Nepal (AAN), over the years has undergone various changes informed by its engagement at the community and other levels. Its scope of work has thus grown in content, coverage, commitment, and capacity to work in a multifarious situation over the period.

AAN changed its approach from direct service delivery to partnership mode with local NGOs in 1996. Similarly, it adopted rights-based approach in 1998 with an aim to creating an environment in which poor and excluded people can claim and exercise their rights, and address and overcome the causes and effects of poverty.

Currently, AAN's long-term partnership programmes at field level are being implemented mainly in Achham, Baglung, Baitadi, Bajhang, Bajura, Banke, Bara, Bardiya, Chitwan, Dadeldhura, Dang, Darchula, Dhanusha, Dolakha, Doti, Jhapa, Jumla, Kailali, Kanchanpur, Kapilbastu, Kaski, Kathmandu, Khotang, Lalitpur, Mahottari, Morang, Mugu, Nawalparasi, Parbat, Parsa, Rasuwa, Saptari, Sarlahi, Sindhupalchowk, Siraha, Udayapur, and Sunsari districts. Besides these, AAN has several short-term engagements with over 200 NGOs, CBOs, Alliances, Networks and Forums across the country.

AAN's rights holders are the poorest and the most excluded people particularly women, children, victims of conflict and disasters, poor landless and tenants, people living with HIV and AIDS, Dalits, indigenous peoples, former Kamaiya, people with disabilities, and urban poor. AAN has prioritised five themes based on the local context and needs – Women's Rights, Education, Food Security, HIV and AIDS and Peace Building. These apart, AAN is also engaged in issues such as Emergency and Disaster, Globalisation, Governance, Gender Equity, and Social Inclusion that cut across all our thematic work.

AAN works at the grassroots and at the national levels with various advocacy programmes in order to influence public policies and practices in favour of the poorest and the most excluded people and to address their immediate conditions.

As a chapter of ActionAid International, AAN is also actively engaged in advocating at the regional and international levels on issues such as Women's Rights, Education, Food, Human Security during Conflict and Emergencies, HIV and AIDS, and Just and Democratic Governance that cut across globally, to campaign for pro-poor policies and to enable the poor and excluded people to secure their rights.

About the Organization:

Apeiron is a Voluntary Association that works in autonomy and freedom for the right of identity and the quality of life, promoting a different way of development, against welfarism and patronage system.

Apeiron's main office is placed in Kathmandu, the capital of Nepal, where the supporting projects are realized and coordinated since 1997. The Nepalese beneficiaries live in a condition of extreme poverty and without any cognition of their rights, in a state of exclusion and exploitation.

Promoting scholastic education and vocational trainings, Apeiron tries to encourage people in self-confidence and awareness of their rights with a particular attention to civil, social and cultural identity. Apeiron tries to sensitize people about the opportunity of social and economic self-development, in order to create an independent society, aware of its own capabilities and involved in the local and international market.

Apeiron works in cooperation with other Italian and Nepalese Associations. The mission of Apeiron is preserved by a group of volunteers, who participate actively, promoting a constant debate and placing their professional capabilities at complete disposal.

Apeiron, thanks to a staff of volunteers, assigned the 90% of the funds to the projects, using the only 10% for the management expenses.

In Italy Apeiron organizes cultural and sporting events, information campaigns and fund raisings to support the projects in Nepal.

CARE, founded over 60 years ago, is one of the world's largest international humanitarian organizations. At present, it is a consortium of 12 member countries – CARE Australia, CARE Canada, CARE Denmark, CARE Germany, CARE France, CARE Japan, CARE Netherland, CARE Norway, CARE Austria, CARE Thailand, CARE UK and CARE USA with its secretariat in Geneva, Switzerland. It operates in over 70 countries in Asia, Africa, Latin America, the Middle East and Eastern Europe.

CARE began working in Nepal in 1978. The early focus was on improving infrastructure in remote areas and agriculture extension activities. Today, its programs are wide ranging and promote equitable and sustainable livelihood by addressing the causes, rather than symptoms of poverty and social injustice. The programs include: improving people's access to food, health, education, economic opportunities, natural resources and safe environment; promoting governance, peace and disaster risk reduction; and strengthening the ability of the poor and marginalized to exercise their rights and participate in the decisions that affect their lives. Focus is on poor, vulnerable and socially excluded groups in all programs.

CARE Nepal works through both formal and informal partnership at multiple levels: with local NGOs, government agencies, communities, civil society groups, federations, networks and private sector. CARE Nepal is currently working in partnership with over 100 local NGOs, 10 different networks and a range of community groups. Partnership with local institutions is an important means of increasing the reach and sustainability of CARE programs, while increasing the institutional capacity of partners. CARE's collaboration with Nepal government ensures that its programs complement national plans and policies.

Today, CARE Nepal currently operating in 36 districts, with major focus on mid- and far-western regions, through 16 community development programs

About the Organization:

ChildFund Japan is a child-focused international non-governmental organization. Originally named Kirisutokyo Jido Fukushikai (and better known as CCWA), it traces its roots back to 1952 when it was established as a recipient body for the sponsorship funds of CCF USA in aid of Japanese orphans of World War II. On the completion of CCF assistance in 1974, CCWA set up the department of international sponsorship to address the challenges faced by children in the Philippines and other parts of Asia. In three decades, CCWA has broadened its scope and extended support to the countries of Indonesia, Nepal, the Philippines, and Sri Lanka, and also to Ethiopia in Africa.

In March 2005, CCWA was reorganized and restructured into two separate organizations, and the international sponsorship department became ChildFund Japan.

ChildFund Japan's involvement in Nepal dates back to 1995 through fund assistance to specific projects of the United Mission to Nepal (UMN). As a first activity of the newly restructured ChildFund Japan, it moved for the establishment of a Nepal Office. A General Agreement was signed with the Social Welfare Council in February 2006, and the Nepal Office formally opened in June 2006.

DFE is a Danish nation-wide non-profit consultancy service within forestry and other land use matters. It was established in 1904. The organization consists of a formalized collaboration between 15 local units-Association of Forest Owners. Each unit is economically and juridical independent association. DFE is a non-profit organization owned and ruled by the members (private and public forest owners). The members are represented by a board of directors chosen by the forest owners. Background : In Terai the amount of available wood are influenced by two main factors. Land tenure and ownership to the trees has been uncertain until the change of the Land Act in 1997 (and amendment of the land regulation act of 1964) The present legislation on private forest is based on two documents : The Forest Act 1993 and the Forest Regulation 1995. Lack of knowledge concerning the complex legislation mentioned above and uncertainty about ownership among these families have made them reluctant to plant trees and introduce agroforestry on the land they are living on. Lack of advisor /Extension Service who could inform the public, specially the smallest and poorest of the farmer about the changes in user rights have lead to a situation where a lot of families would like to plant trees but do not dare. In addition families who already have planted trees are not families with the procedure of achieving license to cut and don't know how to practice sustainable and economical optimal silviculture.

About the Organization:

Educate the Children (ETC) was established in Kathmandu in 1990 as a program to sponsor the education of street children. By 1994, ETC's founder, Pamela Carson, had learned more about the problems of education and poverty in Nepal and recognized that ETC could have a much greater impact with its humble resources if it focused its attention on children nested within communities. For that reason, in 1994 ETC initiated a women's literacy and community development program. Since that year, ETC's community development work has grown slowly but steadily, and has evolved into a 5-year Integrated Community Development model.

Goal: To build self-reliance among marginalized communities by ensuring quality education for children and adults through integrated and innovative community development activities that create awareness and sustainable improvements towards the quality of life.

About the Organization:

In the mid-1980s Government of Nepal (GON) began national HIV/AIDS prevention and control planning. In 1993, a multi-sectoral approach was developed for AIDS and STI control in its Second Medium Term Plan for AIDS Prevention and Control in Nepal (1993-1997). USAID committed its support to provide technical assistance.

In support of this plan's objectives, FHI received funding from USAID to assist GON to reduce the sexual transmission of HIV. Early FHI programs focused into a larger, more comprehensive program. FHI first focused on reducing high risk sexual behaviors that can spread HIV/ FHI worked on major highways along Nepal's southern boarder with India to reach female sex workers and their clients in nine districts. FHI promoted safer sex behaviors and concentrated its efforts on building awareness, promoting condom use and identifying and treating STIs.

Since 1993, FHI has implemented four main HIV/AIDS programs: AIDS Control and Prevention Project (AIDSCAP I) (1993-97); AIDSCAP II (1997-2002); Nepal Initiative (NI) (2001-02); and Implementing AIDS Prevention and Care (IMPACT) (2003-07). Each program responded to the latest epidemiological data and modified or expanded activities to increase the effectiveness and reach of services.

FHI programs now reach more target groups and locations with a wider range of services than ever before. By 2004, FHI had worked in 32 districts, covering the entire length of east-west Mahendra highway and all other main routes in the country. In addition to FSWs and their clients, FHI has expanded programs to reach migrant workers, men who have sex with men, injecting drug users and people living with/affected by HIV/AIDS.

FHI works on this comprehensive response under the National HIV/AIDS Action Plan 2006-08 and in partnership with the government, organizations, companies, individuals and donors- in particular USAID. Together, this work has made positive differences, especially in the lives of the millions of people throughout Nepal reached with information, support and services.

FHI Nepal had been implementing the "IMPACT Project" from 2002 to 2006. The goal of IMPACT/Nepal was to establish a continuum of prevention-to-care services that are available and accessible to those infected and affected by HIV/AIDS. FHI continues its implementation of this goal through the Advancing Surveillance, Policies, Prevention, Care and Support to fight HIV/AIDS (ASHA Project) in partnership with Constella Futures and AMDA and 40 + local implementing partners on the ground with a focus on enhancing care, support and treatment services in 32 districts. FHI/Nepal also receives funding from DFID Regional Directorate for the Reaching Across Borders Project, a cross-border migration project for Nepali migrants in Far Western Nepal and India, to provide ARV treatment, care and support.

About the Organization:

Heifer International is a non-profit, humanitarian organization dedicated to ending world hunger and saving the earth by providing livestock, trees, training and other resources to help poor families around the globe become self-reliant. Since it began in 1944, Heifer has worked directly with 7 million families in more than 125 countries and in 38 U.S. states. Animals from Heifer International provide milk, eggs, plowing power and other benefits that for families across the planet can mean improved nutrition, education for children, health care, improved housing and literally a new way of life. What makes Heifer unique is the practice known as "passing on the gift." Families receiving animals agree to pass on the first offspring – or an appropriate equivalent -- to another family in need, starting a chain of giving that often touches thousands of lives. But Heifer International's most striking qualities are its simplicity and effectiveness. In short, Heifer's common sense approach to sustainable development works – one family at a time.

From a small but ambitious beginning helping soldiers blinded in World War I, HKI has grown into an organization that helps millions of people in Africa, the Americas and Asia.

Helen Keller International strives to be the most scientifically competent organization in improving vision and nutrition throughout the world. All Helen Keller International programs and activities are grounded in a set of values that are intended to guide our work with vulnerable populations and to promote strong internal and external work relationships.

HKI programs combat malnutrition, cataract, trachoma, onchocerciasis (river blindness), and refractive error. The goal of all HKI programs is to reduce suffering of those without access to needed health or vision care and ultimately, to help lift people from poverty. HKI builds local capacity by establishing sustainable programs. Helvetas is a Swiss NGO with a direct membership of more than 38,000 families in Switzerland. Thousands of other Swiss families also support the organization indirectly. We are one of the first socially motivated organizations to be set up in Switzerland specifically for helping poorer countries in the world to improve their living conditions and quality of life. We are known in Switzerland as a socially responsible overseas support organization and in Nepal as an INGO. In fact, we are very much a People's Organization in Switzerland and, as such, we are fully accountable to our membership through our governing board.

Our politic is humanity, because the fight for greater equality, human dignity and self-determination is in itself a political act. However, we have no affiliation with party politics of any kind, either in Switzerland or in Nepal. We strive for social justice. All our programs seek to target poverty or the reasons for its existence. This we do both at sub-district level (through the design and approach of our projects), and at national level (through our policy influencing and advocacy work). We work in some of the poorest districts with some of the poorest people in Nepal. Similarly, we have no religious or commercial mandate. We try hard to be a transparent and honest organization and have developed guidelines to help steer the process and impact of our work in Nepal.

International Alert is an independent peacebuilding organisation working in over 20 countries and territories around the world. Our dual approach involves working directly with people affected by violent conflict as well as at government, EU and UN levels to shape both policy and practice in building sustainable peace.

Peacebuilding encourages the attitudes, the behavior and the structural conditions in society that lay the foundations for peaceful, stable and prosperous social and economic development. Alert does this in a number of ways, bringing together in dialogue groups and people who are divided by conflict, accompanying organisations through peace processes in order to strengthen their capacities to build lasting peace, conducting research and analysis in order to influence international policy and raising awareness of peacebuilding, how it works, and why it matters.

AIN MEMBER'S INFORMATION

With main offices in London, Alert has about 90 international staff and more than 40 projects in West Africa, the Great Lakes region of Africa, the Caucasus, Central Asia, the Andean region of South America, Sri Lanka, Nepal and the Philippines. At both regional and international levels, our thematic work focuses on the role of business, humanitarian aid and development, gender, security and post-conflict reconstruction in the context of building peace.

To support locally-owned research and dialogue processes for national and international stakeholders to address the immediate and long term causes of conflict and stimulate socio-political change for sustainable peace and development in Nepal.

The activities and services were carried out in close co-operation with the Central Region Health Directorate and the Leprosy Control Division, within the policies laid out by the Ministry of Health through a series of agreements, providing direct employment to 104 Nepali citizens. About the Organization:

Established in 1986, MS Nepal works through partner organizations to reduce poverty for poor and marginalized people with a focus on democracy. We believe that the partnership approach is instrumental in creating opportunities for action based on understanding, dialogue and shared responsibility. MS is committed to challenging the structural causes of poverty and improving access for those groups who lack basic rights. Quantitative and qualitative improvements in economic, social and political livelihoods for the target groups from our programme areas are the primary focus areas for MS Nepal Country Programme. An aspect of this work is support for the formations of CBOs which can democratically represent their communities and effectively interact in the wider arena of civil society stakeholders. At this level the MS programme contribution is mainly on strengthening the civil society. This entails strengthening of civil society links to the state and private sectors, especially in relation to service delivery targeted at the poor.

MS Nepal currently works in partnership with 29 NGOs and CBOs in 8 districts of the western, mid-western and far-western and central regions. Since MS is a personnel based partnership programme Development Workers from the North as well from the South are a crucial input for achieving its goals. Currently, 17 Danish DWs are placed with different partner organizations.

Objectives/goals

MS Nepal is currently finalizing its new Country Programme Strategy (CPS) 2007-2011. It has contribution to poverty reduction and equity in target districts in Nepal through building of economic, human, socio-cultural and protective capabilities as the development objective.

In pursuit of the development objective we have three immediate objectives focusing on:

Good governance: Local government is open to cooperation with civil society organizations and more inclusive representation in decision-making and service delivery.

Income opportunities: Poor people have knowledge and skills to make use of productive resources

Vibrant civil society: Civil society organizations (CSOs) are democratic, inclusive, accountable and conflict resolving. CSOs are effectively advocating for interest and rights of poor and marginalized people.

Current programmes/activities

Programmes/activities are along the following lines:

- _ A need-based partnership approach
- _ Inter-cultural cooperation as a means of achieving poverty eradication
- _ Emphasis on capacity building, empowerment and advocacy
- _ Extended use of development workers recruited nationally as well from the North and South
- _ Alliance building and links to the emerging global civil society

The organization actively works to make children's rights a reality at local, national and international level and observes neutrality in matters of politics and religion.

AIN MEMBER'S INFORMATION

Save the Children Norway's work to promote children's rights comprises of two equally important and interdependent elements; practical work for children and advocacy to improve external conditions that affect children's lives. Our work is based on the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child.

Save the Children Norway is a member of the International Save the Children Alliance, which strongly advocates for children's rights.

Save the Children Norway - Nepal (SCNN) started work from 1984, under the agreement signed with Social Welfare Council, by implementing self-managed child-centered community development projects. In 1998, SCNN shifted its strategy to work with local organizations and government structures as partners and re-focused the global strategic issues and undertook a more rights based approach to work.

About the Organisation:

Shapla Neer has been working as a voluntary non-governmental organization for more than 33 years.

In the spring of 1972, 50 Japanese youth volunteers, the delegation for the agricultural rehabilitation program, were sent to Bangladesh which had then just become independent from Pakistan after the "Independence war" of 1971. In a country that had been devastated by war, the young Japanese volunteers came face-to-face with the reality of a situation where only the rich were able to enjoy the life afforded by aid. The poor on the other hand, who accounted for a majority of the nation, were beyond reach.

At the same time the delegates were attracted by the natural beauty of the country and the warmth of its people. They returned to Japan after 4 months activity in Bangladesh with valuable experience that made them reflect on the ways that HBC (Help Bangladesh Committee), the predecessor of Shapla Neer, could provide support at the grassroots level. They set up base at a village in a remote area and started projects for the rural community. From then on, through 'trial and error', we have been learning and refining our support activities and continue to do so. In 1983, HBC changed its name to "Shapla Neer - Citizens' Committee in Japan for Overseas Support."

AIN MEMBER'S INFORMATION

In 1994, Shapla Neer, enriched by the experience in Bangladesh, decided to start projects in a second country - Nepal. We have been working in this country with an aim to uplift the lives of people who are living in difficult conditions. These include the likes of farmers in the eastern hill regions, indigenous ethnic groups in the western plains and the poor in the capital valley of Kathmandu. In December 1996, the first General Agreement with SWC was signed.

In Nepal, we implement our activities through partnerships with national and local NGOs. We saw this arrangement as mutually beneficial as we could learn from their working styles while also sharing our experiences with them. Our policy for partnership is to avoid being just a donor organization but to work at equal levels with our partners. One significant difference, compared to our activities in Bangladesh, is that all our projects here have a fixed duration with each partner NGO.

Shapla Neer has been working for poverty alleviation at the grassroots level by addressing various issues such as Income Generation from Agricultural Activity and Other Vocations, Education, Health & Sanitation and Natural Resource Management while putting priority on Group Mobilization and its Institutional Development as well as Gender Equity and Easing Caste/Ethnic Disparity in the society. In the past decade, we have been able to work with around four thousand Nepali households directly and many others indirectly through the tireless efforts of our dedicated partner NGOs.

In Nepal: SNV established its first office in September 1980 in Nepal.

Mission: SNV is dedicated to a society where all people enjoy the freedom to pursue their own sustainable development. Our advisors contribute to this by strengthening the capacity of local organisations.

SNV's core business is providing demand oriented capacity building support to intermediate-level organisations and local capacity builders with the aim of improving governance and reducing poverty.

SNV works with its strategic partner organisations to identify where support is most needed. It makes commitments to long-term co-operation in order to ensure impact and co-ordinates its efforts with other development organisations. Thus, SNV ensures that problems are approached in an integrated way and at different levels concurrently.

SNV provides advice and management expertise to improve the performance and increase the influence of organisations at regional or district level. These organisations support groups of poor people in remote areas.

By focusing on strengthening the capacity of organisations at the intermediate level in society, SNV aims to build a better link between the problems of poverty in communities and the government policies at the national level.

Sharing Knowledge and Skills

SNV's local and international staff members are all professionals with several years' experience working in developing countries. The variety of services and activities that SNV carries out includes:

- Strengthening capacity of key strategic partners to reach the impact results developed in a programmatic framework.
- Delivering advice to intermediate local organisations based on terms of references developed within the programmatic framework.
- Strengthening and promoting networking within sectors by enabling the access of clients to relevant expertise.
- Facilitating access to funds from outside sources by mediating between the clients and funding agencies.

Social inclusive, gender and conflict sensitive approaches are mainstreamed throughout all the activities of SNV.

The vision of SNV is that: Women and men, thus in general all human beings, should be equally valued and have equal opportunities based on mutual respect at all levels.

With specific skills in service delivery, technology, research and advocacy, these partners have potential to significantly add value to WaterAid's work.

WaterAid began its work in Nepal in 1987. In rural areas WaterAid Nepal (WAN) through NEWAH has provided water, sanitation and hygiene education to more than 3% of the population, while our urban work support those living in slum and squatter communities in the Kathmandu valley and towns in the Terai.

The topography of Nepal plays a determining factor in the areas which can be accessed and the methods that are used to ensure safe drinking water and improved sanitation. Nepal rises out of the narrow strip of flat, fertile Terai land up into the incredibly steep foothills and mountains of the Himalayas. Technologies are chosen that are appropriate to local conditions, affordable and easy to maintain.

Since a comprehensive survey on water quality has not been in Nepal, the population with access to consistently safe water is not known. In the Terai arsenic has been found in 17% of wells exceeding WHO standards. WAN and its partners use arsenic detection and mitigation methods to keep tube wells safe. In addition, falling water tables and ground water pollution pose additional challenges to providing water and sanitation services to poor people in Nepal. Integrated water resource management enables effective programme planning and implementation greatly reducing the spread of disease.

Education on hygiene practices is also carried out in communities, maximising the health benefits of improved water and sanitation services. Water-related diseases are common in Nepal (every year approximately a third of deaths in Nepal are children under five, half of which are due to diarrhoea) but for the majority of the population the causes of ill-health are shrouded in superstition. Hygiene promotion is always included in WAN-supported projects so that communities learn the importance of safe handling of water and associated hygiene practices.

The empowerment of communities and the sustainability of projects are always key in WAN's work. For example, NEWAH has piloted the establishment of a SaniMart to increase the accessibility of latrine parts in the Udayapur district in the Eastern region. SaniMarts are easily accessible shops, staffed by trained sanitation promoters, where latrine construction materials, which are usually hard to come by, are sold at affordable rates.
